Lompoc Library Launches Zip Books Program System enables community to order books even if they're out of stock

LOMPOC, CA, Feb. 15, 2018 – The Lompoc Public Library System has been selected by the California State Library to participate in a project called Zip Books. If a book or audiobook is requested that the library does not own, the library will try to purchase the item and have it shipped directly to the person requesting the item.

Books checked out through the Zip Books program can be returned to the library like other books checked out from the library.

Lompoc Library Director Sarah Bleyl said the Zip Books program is effectually expanding the size of the Lompoc Library infinitely.

“We are happy to launch Zip Books at our Lompoc Library, enabling the library to provide our community members with virtually any book they are looking for,” she said. “We hope community members will take advantage of this great, easy-to-use resource to expand their reading.”

Zip Books is funded by a grant from the California State Library. The Lompoc Library is one of 30 libraries statewide participating in the Zip Books program.
